

Coalition Valued Associates Participate in ALA Annual Convention

ALA

Lieutenant General Jack Klimp, President and CEO for the National Association for Uniformed Services (NAUS) addressed ALA members at our annual convention on the continuing "Assault on Military Benefits." The Military Officers Association of America (MOAA), Association of the United States Army (AUSA), and the National Military Family Association also participated in a Coalition valued associates panel discussion regarding their ongoing efforts to promote and protect military resale benefits, eliminate sequestration, and prepare for future budget battles. We heard many positive comments about both of these presentations and thank all of them for their time and ongoing efforts to protect military resale benefits.

Experts Call For National Debate On U.S. Military Priorities

Navy Times

A prestigious defense review panel has warned that the U.S. government must "sound an alarm" to build public support among the American people for increased defense spending.

Read More

Hagel announces quarantines for troops returning from West Africa

CNN

All troops returning from the U.S. mission to West Africa will be quarantined for 21 days as a precaution against Ebola, Defense Secretary Chuck Hagel announced today. Army Chief of Staff Gen. Ray Odierno earlier ordered a quarantine for all Army troops returning from the region.

Read More